Intellinetics, Inc. Board Announces
James F. DeSocio as New CEO,

Matthew L. Chretien Becomes CSO

COLUMBUS, OH – (September 26, 2017) – Intellinetics, Inc. (OTCQB: INLX), a cloud-based document solutions provider, announced that its Board of Directors has appointed James F. DeSocio as President & Chief Executive Officer, effective September 25, 2017. DeSocio was also appointed to the Board of Directors of Intellinetics, effective the same day. Matthew L. Chretien, the former President and Chief Executive Officer assumed the role of Chief Strategy Officer on September 25, 2017, and retains his roles as Chief Technology Officer and a member of the Intellinetics’ Board.

DeSocio comes to the Company with extensive experience in sales, marketing, international operations, mergers and acquisitions. He has over 20 years of experience managing and growing high tech, SaaS sales organizations. Most recently DeSocio was Chief Revenue Officer at Relayware, a global provider of Partner Relationship Management solutions platform that enables companies to manage high-performing partner programs and channel operations.

James F. DeSocio, President & CEO of Intellinetics, stated, “I am excited about the opportunities at Intellinetics where all of the pieces for success are in place: a robust product offering, standing presence in untapped vertical markets, key strategic OEM partners like Intel and Staples, and a strong foundation of channel resellers.”

DeSocio continued, “Coming off a successful exit and evaluating alternatives for my next steps, Intellinetics presented an opportunity to repeat the successful formula of rapidly growing customers and recurring SaaS sales. Matt and the rest of the Intellinetics team are the ideal group for me to work with.”

While DeSocio was Chief Revenue Officer at Relayware, the company doubled subscription revenue and tripled the customer base over a two-year period. Relayware merged with Zift Solutions in July 2017. Previous to Relayware, DeSocio served in executive leadership positions at XRS Corp., Antenna Software, and Lawson Software where he was responsible for the growth of company revenues, including new sales subscriptions, consulting services, subscription renewals and professional services. Notably, after the significant customer growth at XRS during his time of service, that company was bought by Omnitrac, a Vista private equity company. After presiding over three years of strong sales at Lawson Software, that company completed a successful IPO.

Matthew L. Chretien, CSO and CTO of Intellinetics, added, “This is the perfect time for Jim to become Intellinetics’ next CEO. We’ve selected a very strong leader with an incredible pedigree in growing recurring SaaS revenues and getting the most out of channel partner performance. We could not have found a better colleague than Jim.”
